

The Jenn & Anna Wedding Website

Prepared August 2026 · wedding February 11, 2028

COUPLE

Jenn Wiles (America) & Anna de Klerk (New Zealand). Two brides — all copy and structure must read naturally for a same-sex couple. No bride/groom templates, no "sides" language unless it's "with Jenn / with Anna."

EVENT

Destination wedding — February 11, 2028, Mudbrick Vineyard, Waiheke Island, New Zealand. Welcome event Feb 10, farewell Feb 12 (details TBD).

AUDIENCE

Guests traveling from the United States and New Zealand; all ages, grandparents included. Assume heavy mobile use and guests referencing the site repeatedly for logistics over ~18 months.

DOMAIN

annajenn.com (RSVP email rsvp@annajenn.com already live on the domain).

PROTOTYPE

A working HTML prototype exists implementing everything in this brief — treat it as the visual reference, not a constraint on your build approach.

The concept in one line

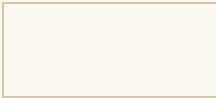

POSITIONING

Country western, refined to the point of quiet luxury: Ralph Lauren's materials and restraint, Wes Anderson's symmetry and typographic charm, and the warmth of classic country — Dolly Parton, Loretta Lynn — carried in the words, not the decoration.

The single most important calibration: this must never look cheap, crafty, or theme-party. The western-ness lives in the palette, the voice, and a few fine engraved marks. If a design element could appear on a hoedown flyer, it's wrong. If it could appear in a Ralph Lauren catalog or a letterpress wedding suite from a good print shop, it's right.

Color

PALETTE — EXACT VALUES

Ivory
#FAF7F0
primary ground — near-white, warm, never yellow

Hunter
#24382C
full-bleed feature bands; RSVP uses deeper #1C2D23

Espresso
#2B2118
text ink — never pure black

Saddle
#7A4A28
accents, small labels, the flight path

Brass
#A98C4F
hairline rules, eyebrows, ornament — at ~45% opacity for dividers

Oxblood
#5E3128
rare — italic asides only

Usage rhythm: ivory pages alternating with full-width hunter bands (roughly 2:1 light to dark). Brass is linework and type only, never a fill. Avoided on purpose: any yellowed "old paper" cream (an earlier round used #F4ECD9 and it read cheap), pure white, pure black.

Typography

THREE ROLES, STRICTLY KEPT

ROLE	FACE	TREATMENT
Display	Libre Caslon Display (Google Fonts)	Regular weight only, large sizes (42–82px hero), italic for the ampersand and romantic asides. Never bolded, never small.
Body	Libre Caslon Text (Google Fonts)	16–16.5px, line-height ~1.75, measure ≤65 characters. Italic sparingly.
Labels	Jost (Google Fonts) — the Futura role	Light/regular, 10.5–12px, uppercase, letterspaced 0.26–0.34em, brass or saddle. Eyebrows, nav, buttons, small captions. This is the Wes Anderson note — keep it quiet.

FEBRUARY 11, 2028 · WAIHEKE ISLAND, NEW ZEALAND

Jenn Wiles & Anna de Klerk

are getting married at Mudbrick Vineyard

Equivalent faces are acceptable if licensing demands (a true Caslon, or Futura for labels), but keep the pairing logic: high-contrast classical serif + geometric sans labels. No slab serifs at scale, no script fonts beyond at most one flourish sitewide, no Inter/Space Grotesk defaults.

Layout principles

WHERE THE MONEY LOOK COMES FROM

- Whitespace is the ornament. Section padding ~100–120px desktop. Nothing feels cramped.
- No boxes. No cards with borders, no rounded corners, no drop shadows, no pills. Structure comes from spacing, thin brass hairlines (1px, ~45% opacity), and the light/dark band rhythm.
- Centered, symmetric compositions for heroes and section heads (the Wes Anderson axis); left-aligned two-column rows (small-caps key + text) for lists like travel steps and the story timeline.
- One signature ornament: a 56px brass hairline with a small rotated-square diamond at center, used under section headings. No other dividers or dingbats.
- Sticky top nav: ivory, hairline bottom border, letterspaced small-caps links, "J & A" wordmark. Unobtrusive.

Imagery & iconography

FINE ENGRAVINGS ONLY

All illustration is single-weight hairline linework (~1–1.5px), monochrome — espresso on ivory, ivory/brass on hunter. Think engraved stationery, not cartoon. The approved marks:

- The Two-Star Globe (the site's centerpiece, in the hero): a line-drawn globe with meridians, a star on America, a star on New Zealand, and a dotted flight path between them.
- The horseshoe, ends up, with lucky us in italic — used once, as the RSVP confirmation.
- Winslow & Bear, the couple's French bulldogs, as line portraits: Winslow (bandana with dots), Bear (bandana with plaid marks). They appear in the wedding party as "Ring Security" and "Best Boy," and small in the footer with their names. Real commissioned engravings from photos would be an upgrade the couple welcomes.

Photography, if introduced later, should be treated editorially: full-width or generous single images, no collages, no rounded corners, no filters fighting the palette.

EXPLICITLY REJECTED IN EARLIER ROUNDS — DO NOT REINTRODUCE

Records/turntables/disco anything · belt buckles · ribbon banners · sunbursts · clip-art wildflowers · butterflies · amp shapes · chunky letterpress borders and offset shadows · showbill "act" numbering · filled cartoon-style illustration · yellowed cream grounds. The couple killed each of these on sight; they are the definition of "cheap" for this project.

Voice

GRACIOUS FIRST, WITTY RARELY

Copy is warm, classic, and complete-sentenced. Wit is rationed to roughly two moments sitewide, currently: the attire epigraph ("in the words of Dolly Parton, it costs a lot of money to look this cheap") and the RSVP line ("whether you're joining us or committing a grave error in judgment — we need a count either way"). If a new joke goes in, an old one comes out. Tone references: a fine hotel's welcome book, Dolly's charm, deadpan restraint.

Sitemap & content status

SEVEN SECTIONS, ONE PAGE

SECTION	CONTENT	STATUS
Hero	Names, date, venue, globe, one-line countdown, RSVP button	Final
Our Story	Timeline: met / first date / long-distance years / proposal / wedding	Structure final; years & stories TBD from couple
Wedding Party	Oval line portraits, name, role, one line each; Winslow & Bear included	Dogs final; humans TBD
The Day	Feb 10 welcome / Feb 11 wedding / Feb 12 farewell; attire band	Times & venues for 10th/12th TBD
Getting There	Fly AKL (date-line warning) → ~40-min ferry → island shuttles; "book early, peak season"	Copy final; specifics TBD
Where to Stay	Rule: stay on Waiheke the night of the wedding. Oneroa closest; Palm Beach/Onetangi. Extend-your-trip ideas	Recommendations list TBD
RSVP	Form on the darkest hunter band; horseshoe confirmation	Final

Unfinished content renders as quiet letterspaced small-caps lines ("Ferry details to follow") — the site is designed to be shared long before every detail exists. Never blank space, never "lorem," never grey boxes.

Functional requirements

BEHAVIOR

- RSVP: fields — name(s), attending (joyfully accepts / regretfully declines), party size, dietary notes, "a song that gets you dancing," message. Prototype submits via pre-addressed mailto to rsvp@annajenn.com; a proper form backend (with responses viewable by the couple) is the preferred production upgrade. Confirmation state = the horseshoe.
- Countdown: one quiet line ("531 days from now"), computed against NZDT; hide at zero. No ticking digits.
- Responsive: flawless at 375px; two-column rows collapse to stacked; nav wraps gracefully.
- Accessibility: visible focus states, real labels on all fields, aria-labels on decorative-vs-meaningful SVGs as marked, contrast AA on both grounds, reduced-motion respected.

- Performance: three Google Fonts families max, SVG-only graphics as delivered — the page should be feather-light.

Assets & open items

WHAT EXISTS, WHAT'S COMING

- Available now: full HTML/CSS/SVG prototype; exact palette and type specs (this document); globe, horseshoe, and both dog SVGs.
- Coming from the couple: story timeline entries, wedding party names/roles/photos, ceremony times, lodging and ferry/shuttle specifics, dog photos for upgraded portraits.
- Open decisions: form backend choice; whether photography enters the design; registry section (not yet requested).

Questions on intent: when in doubt, remove ornament and add whitespace. That has been the answer every time so far.
